

tackles natural disasters

CAREN enables geoscientists across Central Asia to exchange seismic data with European colleagues to assess and mitigate the risk of earthquakes and other natural hazards

CAREN sets out to create a regional high-capacity internet network for researchers, academics and students across Central Asia in partnership with the national research and education networks (NRENs).